DE VALERO TAKES HIS STAND

President De Valero of the Irish Free State is making history at the present time by his endeavor to abolish the Oath of Allegiance to England and to refuse to pay land indemnities to Great Britain in future. It was on these grounds that De Valero was elected to Parliament and no doubt he will do all in his power to bring about his election promises. Probably Mr. De Valero is right in his actions, but it must be remembered that the Irish Free State owes considerable for protection to the mother country and that the Oath of Allegiance was provided for in a treaty that was made some ten or twelve years ago, which established the Irish Free State. England will, however, have considerable trouble with the Irish Free State before she comes to an amiable settlement. A New York Irish newspaper is conducting a campaign at present to form a united Ireland against England in order to make the Irish Free State a free nation, and the response will be great. Ireland cannot hope to better her position by breaking away from the British Empire.

At one time most of the land in Ireland was owned by great landlords. The treaty mentioned above provided for loans to the people so that they might buy their farms and be free of the bonds of the landlords. Since that time most of the people control their farms and many of them have not repaid this loan. However, this is not the point. In return for the loans this treaty provided for certain indemnities and it is these indemnities which De Valero does not want to repay. The amount is approximately $15,000,000 a year and the next payment comes due in June of this year. Mr. De Valero may succeed in staying off the payment of these annuities, but he cannot hope to gain a victory over his English protectors by this rash deed. He can only deal with England on friendly terms.

CONDITIONS IN RUSSIA

We may be hard up in Carbon, but read what things are like in Russia.

We have great poverty here. You can't buy anything. A pair of men's shoes cost $75. A pair of women's shoes, $50. But even at that price we cannot buy them. Bread is about 50c a pound. Farmers are very poor. Women have dresses made of gunny sack and we have only one each. They beg the relations they have in this country to send any old clothes they may have to spare. When people die they are put in a sack and buried that way.

SWALWELL CHILD STRANGLED

Walter John Fraser, infant son of W.A. Fraser, a Swalwell farmer, was strangled to death while endeavoring to crawl from his crib recently, according to a Royal Canadian Mounted Police report.

The baby was seven months old, and crawled to the edge of the crib and fell out, the bed covers winding about his neck to cause strangulation. Dr. Fowler, coroner, of Acme was called and decided an inquest was unnecessary.

NEW MINES TO BE OPENED IN CARBON FIELD

Possibility of better coal orders from the Eastern provinces have probably been one factor in the opening of a couple of new mines in the Carbon field, while the quality and fame of the Carbon coal may be the crowning factor. However, whatever may be the cause, we are informed that two new mines will be operating in the Carbon field before next fall. These will be the old West Carbon, which will be operated by the former operators and mine officials of the Peerless Carbon Collieries, and another small mine East of town on the W.G. Shell farm.

The old Peerless Carbon Collieries has been dismantling for some time now, although coal orders are being handled, and as soon as the coal trade ceases the mine will be immediately closed. In its stead the West Carbon lease will be opened up and the equipment of the Peerless will be moved to the new site as quickly as possible, so as to have the mine in operation for the fall business. Although no definite arrangements have been made, we are informed that the work of the opening up of this West Carbon lease will commence within the next couple of weeks.

Another mine has been opened east of town on the farm of the late W.G. Shell, on the site where the Carbon Stampede was held a few years ago. We are informed that the operators of this mine are Walter Birtles, Jasper Rochester, Harry Dolphin and G. Eslander. These men have already commenced work at the mine site.

FIRST DUCKS OF SEASON ARRIVING IN ALBERTA

Heading due southeast on a beeline for the Shepherd area lakes and other sloughs, the first ducks of the season were seen Saturday afternoon, passing over Calgary. One large group, headed by a contingent of what looked like the patriarchs of the clan, heralded the return of thousands of the migrating birds. Their appearance has been somewhat delayed by the late spring, while their direction of flight is believed to indicate an absence of clear water to the north of Calgary.—Calgary Albertan.

The Cult Of Bigness

Every time the census of population of the country is taken a number of controversies arise because some towns and cities feel they are actually "bigger" than the work of the census enumerators shows them to be. The citizens of these places feel themselves aggrieved, their newspapers protest and their boards of trade propose the taking of another and independent census to establish the truth or falsity of the official figures. All because the town or city wants to be "big," bigger than some other town or city it regards as a rival.

Yet bigness in population is not, in itself, necessarily a good thing. It is not a mark of excellence. Bigness is not greatness, although it is too frequently confused as such. Bigness may, indeed, be a weakness rather than a source of strength. The big city is not a friendly city; it is not a cheap place in which to live, but an expensive place; its pleasures are not of the soul-satisfying kind, but rather tend to the superficial and hectic; it has certain advantages, it is true, but they are, as a rule, out-weighted by many more and greater disadvantages. Nevertheless, every town and city is disappointed if each succeeding census does not reveal to itself and the world that it is "bigger."

This desire for bigness seems to be ingrained in our human make-up. We want a bigger house, although the smaller one in which we live is cosy and comfortable and fully adequate to our needs, and can be maintained at much less cost. We want a bigger car, although we really do not require it and cannot well afford the extra cost to purchase and meet the heavier bills for its operation and upkeep. Instead of being content with that which actually satisfies our needs, we envy another solely because what he has is "bigger" than what we have.

This far from sensible worship of bigness has led many astray and who find themselves in acute difficulty today because what they have is bigger than they need and therefore ought to have. The farmer with a quarter or half section yearns for a bigger farm and so he bought more land until he had a section or two sections. Today, as he sees many of his neighbors with the smaller holdings getting along while he is in trouble, he is less sure about the value of bigness. Today the city man with a large house and a large car is inclined to wish both were of smaller dimensions. The owner of these big things is coming to realize that they also mean something else on a big scale, that is, big expense, big liabilities, big debts.

A big man physically is not necessarily a strong man nor a healthy one. It is not the biggest flowers that are the most beautiful and the most fragrant, nor the biggest apple or peach that is the juiciest or more luscious to the taste. It is not the biggest painting that is the most exquisite and wonderful, nor the biggest book that contains the finest poetry or most entertaining story. Bigness, in itself, is a delusion and a sham.

And, after all, what does mere bigness bring in its train? The bigger a city, the bigger its problems and the bigger its costs of administration. The bigger a man's fortune, the bigger the load of responsibility he has to carry, but not bigger the happiness he enjoys. The German Kaiser wanted a big army and a big navy, and they cost him his throne. It is the bigger ships, the bigger hotels, the bigger office buildings, the bigger businesses that are having the hardest struggle today because they cannot cut their overhead expenses sufficiently to meet present conditions, while those of the smaller class are riding through the storm of this depression.

Why do we all clamor for bigness? The vast majority of us must always fill only a very small place in the world. But is it not infinitely better to fill that place well, to be held in esteem and loved a bit in our small home and home town, than to be a cipher in a big city? Is it not in the so-called small things of life, in the narrow confines of our own home circle, that we find the real joys and the great satisfactions of life, rather than in those things which so frequently, but incorrectly, are termed big?

Think it out for yourself the next time you are inclined to feel discontented and envious of the other fellow who has something that, on the face of it, appears bigger than what you have. Perhaps, if you only knew the whole story, he would gladly exchange places with you.

Receives Little Help

Bulk Of Great Britain's Payments Raised By Taxation

In a recent issue the Saturday Evening Post made the assertion that "So far Great Britain's payments to America have been met by collections from other nations. They have not come out of taxation levied at home."

That statement is at variance with the facts. Only a few days ago Premier Ramsay MacDonald stated that Great Britain's total payments to the United States have amounted to £325,300,000, and that Britain's total receipts from debts and reparations have come to £192,465,000. There is thus a gap of some £133,000,000 which has had to be filled from the pockets of the British taxpayers. Halifax Herald.

Russian Polar Expedition Seeking New Points To North America

A Russian Polar Expedition, seeking a new air route from Russia to North America, will be sent out on the famed ice-breaker "Krassin" next summer, it was announced at Leningrad.

The icebreaker, which participated in the dirigible "Italia" rescue, will carry two airplanes when it starts northward in an effort to penetrate the Arctic ice fields beyond the 85th parallel.

From the point which the ice-breaker is able to reach, the airplanes will be sent out to explore possible air routes across the Polar wastes to North America. The expedition is scheduled to remain in the Polar ice all next winter.

Potsdam Engineer Constructs Queer Boat

Craft Equipped With Powerful Motor and Resembles Whale

Nicholas Bellin, 28-year-old engineer of Potsdam, Germany, has built a boat, resembling a whale with an aeroplane motor atop of the tail, which he believes can span the ocean between Liverpool and New York in less than three days.

The craft is equipped with a 276-horse-power motor, which Bellin said would give it a speed of 62 miles an hour. After testing the boat this spring, he said, he would attempt a trip around the world, travelling east. He estimated it would take him 15 days.

New-Fashioned Method

Treatment Nowadays For Colds More Like a Vacation

There's only one nice thing about colds: Nowadays we don't torture ourselves with old fashioned remedies, specifically hot foot-baths, inhalations under a cloth and burial under a ton of bed clothes.

We simply recline in bed, peruse frivolous magazines, doze when we feel like it, and have our meals brought to us in invalid luxury.

In short, two colds a year has come to mean two extra vacations a year. It's an ill wind, etc.

Most people, however, fancy other breathing spells.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers From Indigestion CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis or stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. Your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

Safe Hours For Motorists

The hour of the week during which you can drive your automobile with the least chance of having a fatal accident is Tuesday between four and five a.m., and the time of greatest risk is on Sunday afternoon, between six and seven, according to statistical study by an insurance company.

With so thorough a preparation at hand as Miller's Worm Powders the mother who allows her children to suffer from the ravages of worms is unwise and culpably careless. A child subjected to the attacks of worms is always unhealthy, and will be stunted in its growth. It is a merciful act to rid it of these destructive parasites, especially when it can be done without difficulty.

The Terror Of Asthma comes like a thief in the night with its dreadful throttling, robbing its victim of breath. ### Create War Impression

Children In Russia Taught That Clash With Other Nations Is Inevitable

The impression is being created in Russia that war with some other power at some time is inevitable. The children are being taught the strength and resources of the Red Army; and, while it is hoped that war never will occur, if it comes the army is ready.

The above statements were made by Miss Jennie Lee, who was one of the youngest members of the British House of Commons before her defeat at the last election. Miss Lee was the luncheon speaker before the Ottawa Canadian Club. Having visited and toured extensively in Russia, she chose for her subject "The New Generation in Russia." The audience which she addressed included Premier R. B. Bennett and W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the opposition.

Adepts At Lip-Reading

Workmen In Automobile Plants Talk To Each Other Easily

The ease with which workmen in some departments of the great automobile plants make themselves heard above the incessant and deafening noises of pounding presses and ponderous hammers is always a source of amazement to visitors. Few of them know it is all done by lip-reading and by becoming accustomed to the bedlam. After a comparatively short time, the workmen can talk in ordinary tones without raising their voices and still understand each other.

DRAPERIES MADE NEW

"When we resumed housekeeping a month ago I found my draperies had become creased from packing. I hung them out on the line, hoping to remove the creases. Then I forgot them. The result was they became badly faded and sun-spotted."

"I was heartsick until the happy thought struck me to dye them. I just dyed them a deeper green, and as I used Diamond Dyes they look gorgeous and new. I have never seen easier dyes to use than Diamond Dyes. They give the most beautiful colors—when used either for tinting or dyeing—and never take the life out of cloth as other dyes do."

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Aspirin tablets when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, they will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Aspirin is harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Aspirin tablets are ready with quick relief—and always work. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

Experiments Now In Progress May Result In Production Of Plants Of Greater Food Value

Wheat, cabbages and turnips may soon be found only in backward countries and museums, or grown as plant curiosities, if some of the entirely new plants now being produced by scientists are found to have greater food value.

For hundreds of thousands of years man has been content to accept the plants that nature gave him. Now and then nature in a sportive mood would cross plants and produce something new and better adapted for or giving a greater yield than either of the parent plants, but now scientists have found how by crossing to produce not merely new varieties but plants beginning a new genus.

Dr. W. P. Thompson, of the Department of Biology, University of Saskatchewan, recently returned from the University of Minnesota where he gave a series of lectures on cytology and genetics to graduate students there, and has enumerated some of the new discoveries in plant breeding.

In the wheat family a plant has been produced by E. Tschermak, of Vienna, in which each plant cell seen under the microscope has 56 chromosomes. In the wheat family everything runs in multiples of 14.

The wild wheat that grew around the shores of the Mediterranean hundreds of thousands of years ago and that still grows there shows under the microscope 14 chromosome bodies in each plant cell. After many thousands of years nature by some crossing or doubling up produced a wheat with 28 chromosomes, the Durum or Macaroni wheat.

Again in an inventive mood nature probably crossed this Durum wheat with a 14 chromosome plant, possibly the wild aegilops and made a 42 chromosome wheat, the parent of all our bread wheats. Now this scientist at Vienna has crossed bread wheat with aegilops and got a plant with 56 chromosomes. Whether it will be a better food plant than our bread wheat does not yet appear but it is quite within the bounds of possibility.

In Denmark they are interested in swedes and turnips and a scientist there, O. Winge, has crossed them and secured a new kind of plant (brassica napus). The swede has 10 chromosomes and the turnip (brassica campestris) has 18. The new plant has 28.

At Moscow, cabbages and radishes both go into the "borstch," but G. D. Karpechenko has a new plant with a chromosome number the sum of both of these. It may be a better soup plant than either.

A special word should be given to the work of Arne Muntsing, of Landskrona, Sweden, who was trying experiments with plants of the mint family. He crossed two distinct species and got a third species which was already a common plant, but not previously known to be so closely related.

Britain's Public Roads

There are 177,256 miles of public roads in Great Britain, according to the Ministry of Transport. It would be necessary to drive 162 miles daily for three years in order to cover every mile of highway under Government supervision. (The last day of all you could take it easy, as you would only have to cover 28 miles).

Turn To Agriculture

Back To the Land Movement Live Issue In Ontario

The "back to the land movement" in Ontario would receive added impetus if a series of recommendations formulated by a sub-committee are adopted by the agricultural and colonization committee of the Ontario Legislature and approved by the House.

The report presented to the main committee recommended:

1. Bonusing of settlers for acreage cleared and seeded.
2. Immediate survey of vacant farms in Ontario.
3. Publication of the results of the survey in Canada and Great Britain.
4. Eventual establishment of a distinct department of colonization under a deputy minister.
5. Establishment of "shacks" in farming districts where prospective settlers would live while preparing the land.
6. The doubling of Ontario's cultivated acreage by a concentrated back to the land movement.

Value Of Livestock

Statistics For Canada Show Value For 1931 Much Lower Than Previous Year

The value of farm live stock in Canada in 1931 aggregated $468,300,000, as compared with $687,225,000 in 1930, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports in an annual review.

Ontario with an aggregate value of $151,904,000, as compared with $218,393,000, was the leading province. Quebec was second with total valuations of $88,473,000, and Saskatchewan third, $76,213,000. The live stock in Manitoba was valued at $36,325,000 and Alberta, $67,229,000.

The total value of all description of farm poultry is estimated at 43,138,000 last year against $54,852,000 in 1930. Ontario also heads the list at $15,551,000 compared with $22,794,000 in the previous year.

Quebec Farmer Has Initiative

Built School In Isolated Bush Country For His Children

The problem of providing an education to a family of fourteen children living in the bush in complete isolation has been solved by a French-Canadian farmer, Theophile Soucy, who built and furnished his own private school and then appointed himself as school commissioner to choose a teacher. The Quebec Government, recognizing his initiative, granted him a small subsidy.

Many miles from Stoneham village, north of Quebec city on the road leading to Laurentides National Park, Soucy's little schoolhouse can be found. The seating capacity at its opening was six but since then desks have been ordered on the average of one every year.

LIFE IS GLORIOUS AND GAY WHEN SISTER WEARS THIS DARLING DRESS

Who wouldn't be won over instantly by its charm and sophistication? It is just the last word in chic as its originator fashioned of brown canton faille crepe with lace trim. It's a splendid dress for simpler "best."

For party wear, when this cute model can be delightfully carried out in taffeta, she'll love it, if you choose the Lyonnaise-pink shade. Finish the round neck and sleeves with a frill of pleated chiffon that tones with the silk. The pleating can be bought already at any of the trimming counters.

And it's so inexpensive to copy it. Style No. 879 is designed in sizes 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 10 requires 2½ yards of 39-inch with 1½ yards lace.

Says Churchill Port Will Be Great Factor In The Return Of Prosperity To Western Canada

Churchill, western Canada's new port on the Hudson Bay, was visualized as a northern industrial centre, a great ocean port and as a factor in bringing the west out of the hole it is now in, in addresses given by Gen. R. W. Paterson and Hon. D. G. McKenzie before the On-to-the-Bay Association at Moose Jaw.

Gen. Paterson and Mr. McKenzie spoke at a banquet held in the Grant Hall hotel.

"There is no force on earth that can prevent Churchill and the Bay route being a great success if you gentlemen do your part," Gen. Paterson stated. "Keep up the spirit of the organization and you will not regret the hard work of the past few years."

The port was characterized by the speaker as being one of the greatest factors in helping the country to come back. It was unfortunate that conditions at the present time were such that the wonderful send-off planned for the official opening would have to be curtailed somewhat, but he claimed the present was the time to get together and get the route working, even if it was on a smaller scale than was originally planned. Every ship that sailed into and out of the port would be an encouragement to others to do likewise, and in this manner freight and insurance costs would be cut.

There were no difficulties, Gen. Paterson said, and the more fog and darkness that could be lifted from the situation, the more rapidly would the route and the port develop. The facilities and all aids to navigation would be at the port by July.

Possibilities of tremendous development at Churchill and in the Churchill area were foreshadowed by Hon. D. G. McKenzie, Winnipeg.

Mr. McKenzie visualized the importance of the bay route and the port in the years to come and of the industries which may find a place in the economic life of the people who will live there.

His address pertained to the town site of Churchill and the opening of the port. The date of this would depend, he said, upon the Department of Railways and Canals at Ottawa who had control of affairs in connection with the port at the present time.

Opening his address, the speaker gave a description of the territory within 150 miles of the port. This was very level and covered with muskeg but with proper drainage, could be transferred into first class grazing land. At this point he visualized cattle being shipped to the territory and finished before being shipped to Great Britain and European ports.

Considerable work has already been done on the townsites in the matter of clearing the land of rocks and levelling of hills. The result has been that the town is set on a southern slope with perfect drainage.

The task of protecting waterworks from frost was a rather difficult one and the matter of a winter water supply therefore was a problem. This however could be overcome, he said.

The town as a whole also presented a serious fire hazard for it was 500 miles from the nearest community and at certain times of the year strong winds from the bay were prevalent. This, however, could be overcome by the stipulation that all buildings be of fireproof construction and that houses be built of fire-resisting materials. There was plenty of stone and rock in the vicinity for this purpose, Mr. McKenzie stated.

At the present time and probably for a few years to come, the government was not in favour of a heavy influx of people into the area for if these were to be left stranded in winter time, the government would have to take care of them or take them out of the territory.

World's Wheat Varieties

1700 Samples Of Seed To Be Shared By Manitoba and Saskatchewan Universities

A complete set of seed samples of the 1,700 varieties of the world's wheats, collected by Professor John Percival, of Reading, England, author of the most authoritative book on wheat varieties, will be shared in the cereal departments of the University of Saskatchewan and Manitoba Agricultural College, Dr. J. P. Harrington announces.

The purpose of securing these seed samples is to have available all possible breeding material to breed new wheats answering the requirements of high yield, high quality, earliness, disease resistance and drought resistance.

In reply to the question whether work had been done to secure a wheat for the north country with the good qualities of Garnet and without its defects, Dr. Harrington said that Reward-Garnet crosses had been made at the university, but that the work was not sufficiently advanced to announce any results at the present time.

King George Attends Quaint Annual Ceremony

Distribution Of Maundy Money Was Once Elaborate Ritual

When he attended the distribution at Westminster Abbey of the royal Maundy money the king witnessed a ceremony which no English sovereign has attended for a century or more. Distribution of the specially minted Maundy money is now all that is left of the one-time elaborate ritual. The recipients were poor people drawn from all over England, totalling 67 men and 67 women, corresponding to the king's age, and the money distributed amounted to about $10 in lieu of provisions, and then 67 pence—or about $1.10—which is the actual Maundy money, and is worth considerably more than its face value when, as it generally is, it is sold to collectors.

To each recipient of the Maundy money the king first handed a little red pouch containing the 50 shillings in the place of the oldtime provisions, and then handed to them a little white pouch containing the actual Maundy money. This was in special coins of denominations from one pence to four pence.

"What would your mother say if she saw you in that daring costume?"

"She would be very cross. It is hers!"—Wahre Jakob, Berlin.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause

When your baby fusses, tosses and seems unable to sleep restfully, look for one common cause, doctors say. Constipation. To get rid quickly of the accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, give a cleansing dose of Castoria. Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. It is so mild and gentle you can give it to a young infant to relieve colic. Yet it is as effective for older children. Castoria's regulative help will bring relaxed comfort and restful sleep to your baby. Keep a bottle on hand. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

It was reported Pope Pius probably would inaugurate the Eucharistic Congress at Dublin next June with a broadcast message.

The world's crop of winter wheat is only two per cent. smaller than last year, judging by reports from 15 countries.

Dr. O. T. Avery, New York, who discovered a means of killing the pneumonia germ by dissolving its protective covering has been awarded $1,500 by the American College of Physicians.

The motion of H. C. Nixon, Progressive leader, asking the Federal Government not to appoint a lieutenant-governor for Ontario for one year was voted down by the provincial legislature.

Russia is ranked by the Economic Review of the Soviet Union, published by the Amtorg Trading Corporation, as second only to the United States in volume of industrial output and national income.

Great Britain intends to proceed without deviation with its program for India, Sir Samuel Hoare told the House of Commons, and will not be deflected from it "by threats of force or sudden alarms."

The Family Physician.—The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

A Difficult Test

Candidates for the post of announcer in one American broadcasting company had to pass a test, one phrase of which is "The seething sea ceaseth, and thus the seething sea sufficeth us." Only ten of the 2,500 tested in the last two years received appointments.

Feverish?

"My baby's cheeks and hands were so hot," writes Mrs. Bernard Breen, Enterprise, Ont. "I was frightened. I gave him a Baby's Own Tablet at noon and by after supper he was all better." Effective for colds, colic, teething. Absolutely safe. See certificate in each 25c package.

Apparently Nuts Imported By Canada Come Principally From France, Spain and China

Nuts of all kinds imported into Canada in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1931, were valued at $3,998,144. Shelled walnuts comprised the principal item, totalling 4,806,662 pounds valued at $1,003,151. Of this total two and a half million pounds were brought in from China and nearly two million pounds from France. The next most valuable import was of green peanuts, shelled and unshelled, amounting to 25,323,421 pounds valued at $971,216. These came chiefly from China, imports in the last fiscal year totalling 21,091,728 pounds valued at $729,108. Spain furnishes most of the almond nuts imported. Out of a total of almonds, not shelled, imported in the last fiscal year amounting to 931,556 pounds valued at $97,900, Spain supplied 829,928 pounds valued at $84,844; and out of a total of 1,732,343 pounds of shelled almonds valued at $441,131, Spain supplied 1,501,327 pounds valued at $364,854.

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband says she Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. We find artists, doctors, theatrical producers (and husbands!) all agreed upon this point. Read what this woman of 29 says about it:—

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she had lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last, when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet."—Mrs. S. R.

Taken every morning, Kruschen effects a perfectly natural clearance of undigested food substances and all excessive watery waste matter. Unless this wastage is regularly expelled, Nature will eventually store it up out of the way in the form of ugly fat.

Progress In Africa

People Take Quickly To New Ideas For Advancement

Do not let us delude ourselves into thinking that the African will not in time demand his share of self-government as the Indian has done. Those who knew Africa in her old, untouched days are astonished at the rapidity with which new ideas are taking root, and every new school and road and trading store promotes more change. The very fact that the African starts from a lower level of culture than the Indian is capable of accentuating the rapidity and gravity of the change. He has no load of ancient civilization round his neck, no serious religious disputes, no excess of population fixed in the ruts of old habits and ingrained superstitions. The difference between his level and that of the alien whites is so great that he is inclined, once he makes the plunge, to abandon all his own distinctive ideas and to aim directly at a Europeanized culture.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

APRIL 10

HOW SIN BEGINS

Golden Text: "Watch and pray that ye enter not into temptation."—Matthew 26:41.

Lesson: Genesis 2:8 to 3:24.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 1.

Explanation and Comments

The Garden Of Eden, 2:8-15.—And Jehovah planted a garden eastward, in Eden, we read. With the trees in the garden that were to provide food were two mysterious trees such as never grew in any earthly garden. The fruit of one of these trees would give the partaker knowledge of good and evil; that of the other, immortal life. In this garden Adam and Eve were put to care for it.

The Obedience Required, 2:16, 17.—The fruit of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil they were forbidden to eat. Through it was to come the knowledge of sin and its consequences as well. If that command were disobeyed, then they would surely die.

"In all holy life there must be a forbidden tree. But all limitations ordained of God are appointed to be the ministers of our strength. If we observe them they do not belittle us, they exalt us. The tempter would make us believe that the restriction of our freedom enslaves us, and that the bursting of our barriers is the enlargement of our life. It is fatal delusion. A broken moral law always means a broken and shriveled life: 'The wages of sin is death,' and the wages begin to be paid at once. Every time we sin death is at work."—J. H. Jowett.

The Temptation, 3:1-5.—The serpent here in Genesis is the power of evil personified; it is Milton, not Genesis, that terms the serpent Satan. The tempter is called by the Jews "the old serpent." Temptation to sin comes from without human nature, but the capacity for sin is within.

Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field, "the fittest imp of fraud," as Milton calls him. To the woman he said, "Yea [indeed, truly] hath God said, Ye shall not eat of any tree of the garden?" The interrogative sentence is also exclamatory and is designed to arouse distrust of God. "Ay, and so God has said, etc!" is one translation. "The range of the prohibition is purposely exaggerated in order to provoke inquiry and criticism."

The order of words in Eve's answer brings out the thought that she resents the serpent's subtle meaning: they could eat of the fruit of any tree save of that in the midst of the garden, that tree of knowledge of good and evil. That it was an apple tree is an idea said to have come from the Romans. The word used in the "Vulgate" for fruit, "fructum," was rendered "pomum" by some transcriber, a word which means fruit and also apple. The Greeks understood it to be a fig tree. Death would be the penalty for eating or even touching that special fruit. Eve seems to have expected death would immediately follow its eating.

"Ye shall not surely die," returned the serpent. Not to save you from death, but to prevent your being like him, has God forbidden you to partake of this fruit: "Ye shall be as God, knowing good and evil." The serpent's wily words impute an unworthy motive to Jehovah, and arouse doubt as to His perfect goodness; they appeal to Eve's curiosity and desire for knowledge and power, and are almost a dare.

The Disobedience, 2:6, 7.—Eve looked longingly at the forbidden fruit, dallied with temptation. She saw that it was good for food, a delight to the eyes, and had the power to make one wise; there was an appeal to appetite, to the sense of beauty, and to intellect. The desire to become like God overcame the fear of His displeasure. She yielded to the temptation and partook of the fruit.

Eve gave the fruit to her husband and he ate also. "Before this temptation the woman fell, and the man was immediately involved in her fall—another fine truth; she holds the key of his destiny."—J. E. McFadyen.

Cools and caresses the skin. Relieves all roughness and chafing caused by weather conditions. Tones and stimulates. Enhances and protects the loveliest complexion. ### Hardly Worth Speaking About

If you have a good imagination, try and imagine what the newly discovered neutron, a part of an atom and of great importance to science, looks like. Prof. Lachlan Gilchrist of the physics department of the University of Toronto, told the Royal Astronomical Society its weight is represented by the 540th part of a million-million-millionth part of a gramme, and a gramme is about 2,600th part of an ounce.

Heavy Taxation

Detroit Plans To Refund Debts Totalling $31,000,000

Declaring it the only way the life savings and property of many of Detroit's citizens can be saved, Mayor Frank Murphy announced recently that he would seek the co-operation of the city's banker-creditors in a refunding of some $31,000,000 in interest and maturity charges due this year.

If the plan is agreed upon, the mayor said, it will mean a substantial reduction in the city's $76,000,000 tax levy for 1932. If it fails, he said, an increase in the tax rate of nearly $3 for each $1,000 valuation is imminent. The property tax rate for the current fiscal year is $22.63 for $1,000 valuation.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

Of Far End,"

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued

Her voice wavered uncertainly. The realization of his intent had come upon her so unexpectedly, rousing her from her placid unconsciousness, that she felt stunned—nervously unready to deal with the situation. She struggled a little, instinctively, but he only laughed down at her, a ring of masterful triumph in his voice, holding her effortlessly, with all the ease of his immense strength.

"It's no good, Jean. You've got to hear me out. I've waited long enough." He paused, then drew a deep breath. "I love you!" he said slowly. "My God, how I love you!"

There was an element of wonder in his tones, and she felt the strong hands gripping hers tremble a little. Then their clasp tightened and he drew her towards him.

"Say you love me," he demanded. "Say it!"

It was then Jean found her voice. The imperious demand, infringing on that secret, inner claim of which she alone knew, stung her into quick denial.

"But I don't! I don't love you!" Then, as she saw the blank look in his eyes, she went on hastily: "Oh, Geoffrey, I am so sorry. I never guessed—I never thought of your caring."

"You never guessed! Good God!"—with a harsh laugh—"I should have thought I'd made it plain enough. Why, even that first day, on the river—I wanted you then. What do you suppose has brought me to Staple every day? Affection for Blaise Tormarin?"—cynically.

"I thought—I thought—"She cast about in her mind for an answer, then presented him with the simple truth. "I'm afraid I never thought about it at all. I just took your coming over for granted. I knew you and Judith were old friends and neighbors, so it seemed quite natural for you to be here often—just as Claire Latimer is."

Burke searched her face for a moment. He was thinking of the other women he had known—women who would never have remained blind to his meaning, who had, indeed, shown their willingness to come halfway—more than halfway—to meet him.

"I really believe that's true," he said at last, grudgingly. "But if it is, you're the most self-conscious woman I've ever come across."

"Of course it's true," she replied simply. "I'm—I'm so sorry, Geoffrey. I like you far too much to have wished to hurt you."

"I don't want liking. I want your love. And I mean to have it. You may not have understood before, Jean, but you do now."

She drew herself away from him a little.

"That doesn't make any difference, Geoffrey. I have no love to give you," she said quietly.

He shook his head.

"I won't take no," he said doggedly. "You're the woman I want. And I mean to have you. . . . Don't you understand? It's no use fighting against me. You may say no, now; you may say no fifty times. But one day you'll say—yes."

Jean's slight frame tautened.

"You are mistaken," she said, in a chill, clear voice calculated to set immeasurable space between them. "I'm not a cave woman to be forced into marriage. Oh!"—the ludicrous side of this imperious kind of wooing striking her suddenly—"don't be so absurd Geoffrey! You can't seize me by the hair and carry me off to your own particular hole in the rocks, you know." She began to laugh a little. "Let's just go on being good friends—and forget that this has ever happened."

She held out her hand, but he took no notice of the little friendly gesture. There was a red gleam in his eyes, a smouldering glow that needed but a breath to fan it into flame.

"You speak as if it were something that was over and done with," he said in a low, tense voice. "But it isn't; it never shall be. I love you and want you, and I shall go on loving you and wanting you as long as I live. Jean—sweetest"—his voice suddenly softened incredibly—"I'll try to be more gentle. But when a man loves as I do, he doesn't stop to choose his words." He stepped closer to her. "Oh! You little, little thing! Why, I could pick you up and carry you off to my cave with two fingers. Jean, when will you marry me?"

His big frame towered beside her. He paid no more attention to her dismissal of him than if she had not spoken, and she was conscious of an odd feeling of impotence.

"You don't seem to have understood me," she said forcing herself to speak composedly. "If I loved you, you'd have no need to 'carry me off' to your cave. I'd come—gladly. But I don't love you, Geoffrey. And I shall never marry a man I don't love."

"You'll marry me," he returned stubbornly. "Do you think I'm going to give you up so easily? If you do, you're mistaken. I love you, and I'll teach you to love me—when you're my wife."

The two pairs of eyes met, a challenging defiance flashing between them. Jean shrugged her shoulders.

"I think you must be mad," she said contemptuously, and turned to leave him.

In the same instant his hands gripped her shoulders and he swung her round facing him again.

"Mad!" he exclaimed hoarsely. "Yes, I am mad—mad for you. You little cold thing! Do you know what love is—man's love?"

She felt his arms close round her like a vice of steel, lifting her off her feet, so that she hung helpless in his embrace. For a moment his eyes burned down into hers—the hot flame of desire that blazed in them seeming almost to scorch her—the next, he had hidden his face against the warm white curve of her throat, where a little affrighted pulse throbbed temptuously. Then, as though the touch of her snapped the last link of his self-control, his mouth sought hers, and he was kissing her savagely, crushing her soft, wincing lips beneath his own. Her slender body swayed helpless as a reed in his strong grip, while the tide of his passion, like some fierce, untameable flood, swept over her resistlessly.

When at last he released her, she stood back from him, rocking a little instinctively he stretched out his hand to steady her.

"Don't . . . touch me!" she panted.

The words came driven between clenched teeth chokingly. Her face was milk-white and her eyes blazed at him out of its pallor. She felt as if her heart were beating in her throat, stifling her, and for a little space sheer physical stress held her silent. But she fought it back, asserting her will against her weakness.

"How dare you?" There was bitter anger in her still tones. "How dare you touch me—like that?"

With a swift movement she passed her handkerchief across her lips and then let it fall on the ground as though it were something unclean. He winced at the gesture; for a moment the passion died out of his face and a rueful look, almost of schoolboy shame, took its place.

"Do you—feel like that about it?" he said, nodding towards the handkerchief.

"Just like that," she returned. "Do you think—if I had known—I would ever have risked being alone with you? But I thought we were friends—I never dreamed I couldn't trust you."

"Well, you can't," he said unsteadily. The sight of her slender, defiant figure and lovely, tilted face, with the scornful lips he had just kissed showing like a scarlet stain against its whiteness, sent the blood rioting through his veins once more. "You'll . . . you'll never be able to trust any man who loves you, Jean."

Her thoughts flew to Blaise. She would trust herself with him—now, at any time, always. But then, perhaps—the afterthought came like a knife-thrust—perhaps he did not care! "A man who—loved me," she said dully, "would not do what you've just done."

"He would—sooner or later. Unless his veins ran milk and water!" He drew a step nearer and stood staring down at her sombrely. "Do you know what you're like, I wonder? With your great golden eyes and your maddening mouth and that little cleft in your white chin. . . . You're angry because I kissed you. I wonder I didn't do it before! I've wanted to, dozens of times. But I wanted your love more than a passing kiss. I've waited for that—waited all these weeks. And now you refuse it—you've not even understood that you're all earth and heaven to me. God! How blind you must have been!"

She was silent. Her anger was waning, giving place to a certain distressful comprehension of the mighty force which had suddenly broken bondage in the man beside her. Dimly, from her own knowledge of the yearning bred of the loved one's nearness, she envisaged what these last weeks must have meant to a man of Burke's temperament. Was it any wonder, when suddenly made to realize that the woman he loved not only did not love him in return, but had failed even to sense his love for her, that his stormy spirit had rebelled—flung off its shackles? An element of self-reproach tinged her thoughts. In a measure the fault had been hers; her self-absorption was to blame.

Little Helps For This Week

"Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary?"—Mark vi. 3.

A lesson, Lord, those eighteen years to me;
Not elsewhere I could so devoutly learn

That humble tasks are best, however I yearn
For higher spheres where I may work more free.

Blest were those patient, toiling years to Thee,
Their secret kept within Thy lonely heart,

While Thou wast trained by daily skill of art
To build new worlds for human destiny.

Thy future was the Now. 'Twas from its height
Thine eye read meanings in the passing day;

If Cross of Death cast shadows on Thy way,
What sun was that so darkened in his light?

O Nazarene, out of these toils there came,
That which we prize most dear,—a Brother's Name!

—A. A. Lipscomb.

Christ did not want higher occasions than the Father gave Him. The grand maxim of His mission was that the humblest spheres give the greatest weight and dignity to principles. He was the good carpenter,—saving the world. Rightly viewed, there are no small occasions in this world, as in our haste we too often think. Great principles, principles sacred even to God, are at stake in every moment of life. God prescribes our duty; and it were wrong not to believe that if we undertake God's real work, He will furnish us to it, and give us pleasure in it.—Horace Bushnell.

Control Of Nerves

Living Nerves Can Be Switched Like Telegraph Nerves

Zoological proof that living nerves can be switched like telegraph wires was presented to the American Association of Anatomists meeting in New York.

If the nerve naturally controlling a muscle is destroyed, another nerve can be substituted by operation, and will operate the muscle very well.

These switches have been made and their success verified at Yale University in the Osborn Zoological Laboratory. Donald H. Barron, who conducted the experiments, reported them to the anatomists.

WHEN
FOOD SOURS

ABOUT two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for correcting excess acids. 50c a bottle—any drug store. The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste that safeguards against acid-mouth. (Made in Canada.)

plea through its columns for an organized Board of Trade, to go out after a Creamery for the town, but nothing further has been said about the matter, although since that time the production of dairy products in the district has greatly increased and more mixed farming is being carried on. No doubt a certain amount of business will have to be had to assure a creamery that it can make ago of it, but unless the matter is fully gone into by some organization such as the U.F.A.
or the Board of Trade, or a combination of both, nothing can be done.
Someone must start the ball rolling.
After an investigation of a committee had been made on the possibilities of a creamery, and should there not be sufficient business, now is the time to go after it. Get a few more farmers milking cows, and make up the difference, although we feel sure that there would be a considerable increase in mixed farming should we have such a creamery in town where the farmer could sell his product and save the express charges. And wouldn't that two or three dollar cream cheque each week make a whale of a difference to the pocket book of the average farmer —and the store-keeper? It's about time some of these stagnant organizations woke up and did something for the district. Let's have a joint meeting of the defunct Carbon Board of Trade and the U.F.A. Local! Can't our U.F.A. officials work on the matter—or are they of the opinion that such an undertaking could not be started in Carbon for lack of business? We would welcome Letters to the Editor on this all important subject. Mr. Hart! Mr.
Barker! And other dairy men! Let us here what you have to say on the matter.SPECIAL SHOE REPAIR PRICES!Men's Half Soles and Heels $1.25
